I <sup>TM</sup>ve used the ROBLOX curriculum with my students well before distance learning was required and have seen first-hand how they benefit from combining learning and play on their favorite platform. While they learn game design and coding, they also acquire valuable social skills and create long-lasting friendships, said Bianca Rivera, Librarian at Ruth C. Kinney Elementary in New York. Now more than ever, it <sup>TM</sup>s important for these kids to feel connected to their peers, and ROBLOX <sup>TM</sup>s offerings facilitate that.

Unboxing videos are still incredibly popular, and Unboxing Simulator by teamunsquared takes the idea to a new level. In this game, players unlock areas and dungeons and destroy boxes. Boxes will contain hats, coins, and gems that can be used to unlock new areas with different content. There are also eggs players can collect and hatch, which will grant them access to various pets. Players can also input codes to claim rewards like extra coins and gems or boosts on their way to becoming the ultimate box smasher.

The Digital Safety Scavenger Hunt game allows educators to take advantage of ROBLOX's free private servers feature, which lets them create invite-only game instances that can only be accessed by their students. The game has a variety of activities that incorporate digital civility in an engaging way including:

We've been hearing from our educator community that it's simply not enough to have occasional conversations about safety and digital civility and that they'd greatly benefit from a structured curriculum and project-based learning as the new school year begins and kids are spending more and more time learning and interacting with one another online, said Laura Higgins, Director of Community Safety and Digital Civility at ROBLOX. The curriculum launching today is designed to provide both educators and students with a self-paced, topic-specific narrative that will help build a generation of resilient digital citizens and ensure kids and teens have positive and safe online experiences.
